CME ON AEROSPACE MEDICINE AND HUMAN ENGINEERING WORKSHOP

On 01 and 02 Nov 2001, for the first time in its history, a Continuing Medical Education programme on Aerospace Medicine was conducted at IAM. This CME was telescoped with a workshop on Human Engineering. Over the two days of scientific deliberations contemporary aeromedical problems were discussed. Panel Discussions on newer concepts in Acceleration Physiology and Spatial Disorientation were the highlights of the conference. The Human Engineering workshop comprised an update on Night Vision, Aircrew protective clothing in IAF and Imaging in Spinal Trauma.

ISAM WEBSITE

ISAM was established in 1952 and comprises specialists from diverse fields. The objective of the society is to promote the science and art of Aerospace medicine and disseminate knowledge. To further this aim of disseminating information to various specialists both at National and International levels the society formally hosted its website on 01 Nov 2001. The website was inaugurated by Air Marshal LK Verma AVSM PHS DGMS (Air). The website address is http://www.isamindia.org. The website will disseminate information about the Society and its functionaries and corporate members, it will furnish information about IAM, the ongoing Research activities and information about forthcoming events. Abstracts of articles being published in IJASM will be available for everyone and the complete text will be for members only.

UPDATE OF MEMBERSHIP LIST

Perceiving a need to maintain a directory of all the Fellowships bestowed on members and non-members by the Society and also a list of all members, an updated list of members of the Indian Society of Aerospace Medicine is in the process of being prepared and will appear in the next issue of the Indian Journal of Aerospace Medicine.
